1. Understanding theory courses

Use of PPT for Theory courses

Utilizing PowerPoint presentations (PPT) in theory courses within a Bachelor of Education (B.Ed) program can greatly improve the teaching and learning process. PPT slides can encompass visuals such as images, diagrams, and videos to aid visual learning, rendering abstract concepts more tangible and comprehensible. Arranging information into slides aids in presenting content logically and sequentially, promoting better understanding. The slides can be distributed to students for their review, ensuring their access to the material even after the lecture. By integrating PowerPoint presentations thoughtfully into theory courses, educators can establish dynamic and efficient learning environments that accommodate diverse student requirements and improve overall educational results.

Course 1 to 12 and in EPC 1 to EPC 7 where teachers use PPT for Theory lectures.
